How To Manage Your Product Inventory

28 January 2013

If you've been using our online store and making some sales through your website you might have wondered what happens if somebody orders a product that is out of stock. Well, now we have a new feature to automatically handle this problem for you.

When you create a new product on your website, you'll see the following option to enter your stock levels for your product:

Product Code	<input type="text" value="IPOD"/>
Available Stock	<input type="text" value="5"/> (leave blank for unlimited stock)
Income account	<input type="text" value="products"/>

Shoppers cannot add more items to their cart than your available stock and your stock levels will be double checked when they confirm and pay their order. Once an order is confirmed the stock level is reduced so the shopper will not be able to over-order either.

Sorry we only have 5 left in stock.

Apple iPod

The iPod is a line of portable media players designed and marketed by Apple Inc. The first line was released on November 10, 2001, its most recent redesigns announced on September 12, 2012. There are four current versions of the iPod: the ultra-compact iPod Shuffle, the compact iPod Nano, the touchscreen iPod Touch, and the hard drive-based iPod Classic.

Like other digital music players, iPods can serve as external data storage devices. Storage capacity varies by model, ranging from 2 GB for the iPod Shuffle to 160 GB for the iPod Classic. The devices are controlled by the Samsung ARM and the Apple

When your stock reaches zero, customers will still see the product page (which is important for search engines) but will see the message "Now out of stock!" and will not be able to purchase that product.

Now out of stock!

When new stock arrives, just edit the product page and update the stock level.
