By Sunburnt Technology, 11 June 2014

With mobile visitors now accounting for over half of your traffic it is pretty important that they can actually read your website. Unfortunately, most phones show your website in teeny-tiny font unless you build a separate design especially for mobile visitors.

It's slow and you can't read anything until you pinch the screen to zoom in. Not very useful. Sensibly, news.c also have a mobile version of their site which loads faster and is easily readable on a mobile device:
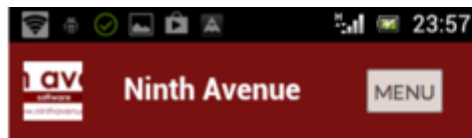

This end of financial year, we'd like to give you some incentive to improve your users' mobile experience by offering a discount on a mobile design for your website. Normally, a basic mobile design would set you bac , however until July 15 we're offering in to you for just $495.
