Adwords Service Launched!

By Roger Keays, 20 September 2007

Sunburnt Web Services is pleased to announce the launch of our new Adwords Search Engine Marketing se

We've spent many months refining and perfecting our Adwords process and strategy and are now ready to a to your business to create more opportunities for you.

Google Adwords is a product which allows you to bid for text advertisements on Google's search engine respages (as shown below) and gain exposure to huge number of your potential customers. There are plenty or reasons to use adwords:

- reach a global audience
- target your adverts to any location on the globe and/or time of day
- only pay per click, i.e. when visitors click on your ads
- easily measure the exact performance and ROI of your campaign
- attract customers who are ready to purchase!

Adwords is an excellent product, but it is very mathematical and newbies often get burnt because they don't understand how the system works.

Our 4-phase process is designed to achieve nothing less than "Adwords Perfection". We continually optimis campaign by split testing ads and landing pages, removing unproductive ads and keywords, managing CPC optimal ad position and ROI, choosing keywords which give the best return and tweaking the vast array of o available in a typical search engine marketing campaign. At the end of each month we provide you with a m report evaluating the effectiveness of your marketing campaign.
