Here, Have a Free Website

By Roger Keays, 2 March 2009

Let's face it. Times are tough. Forget the economic crisis, and global warming - it's hard enough just covering to day business expenses: rent, staff, tax, Internet, phones, transport, equipment, products... the list never ends. Where are you supposed to find the extra cash for something like a website? I mean those web developers charge a fortune! Wouldn't it be great if someone just gave it to you for FREE?

Well, that's exactly what we'd like to offer you today.

For years we've been developing software to help our customers help themselves and today we've reached a milestone which means you can now do it all yourself at no cost. The process is ridiculously easy and looks something like this:

Step 1. Complete the registration form.

Step 2. Give your friends your new website address.

You can choose from our collection of stock themes, customise them with your banner and preferred fonts, and edit as many pages as you like, setup mailing lists and email accounts and even install our online store and accounting applications if you are looking at getting into e-commerce. It's all about as difficult as putting on a CD and you'll be out of pocket a grand total of $0.

The only charge you ever need pay is the monthly server rental fee which ranges from $3.95 to $27.95 depending on your usage, but we've even waived that for two weeks so you can try one of our servers without spending a cent. For customers who want paid support, this is available, and for those that don't we have a free support option. Honestly, if there is a better deal around we'd like to know.
